

Largest MBA competition in the world draws participants from 13 countries John Molson School of Business MBA International Case Competition

Montreal, December 16th, 2013 - From January 5 to 10, 2014, the 33rd John Molson MBA International Case Competition will welcome 36 schools from around the world at the Fairmont Queen Elizabeth hotel in downtown Montreal.

The competition, the oldest and largest of its kind in the world, is organized by 4 MBA students from the John Molson School of Business appointed in March. Five executive assistants join them to bring together 36 schools, 350 volunteers and over 270 local executives as judges. In total, over 1,000 attendees are expected for the weeklong event.

The organizers:
Bitia Sehat, Leila Mosalaeepour, Hanaa Badaoui, Elliott Altilia

” This event highlights the importance of best practices for success, one of PMI-Montreal’s core values. We are always eager to encourage young business talent. This competition provides us an excellent opportunity to meet with potential members and show them how project management will serve them throughout their career.

Benoît Lalonde, President of PMI-Montreal ”

MBA participants from all over the world

This year’s event will have the largest number of international presence with 16 international teams from all over the globe including Australia, Singapore, Germany, Sweden, and South Africa. The Netherlands and Brazil will be participating for the first time along with Yale School of Management, University of Minnesota and University of Notre Dame. The presence of Quebec Business schools is also boosted this year by the participation of Sherbrooke University.
